We are proud and happy to announce the ICAE Virtual seminar 2017 together with DVV International - on the topic of “Skills and Competencies”!

The virtual seminar is based on the publication of DVV international “Adult Education and Development Journal” (which is published once a year in three languages and was launched in December 2015).

The objectives of the ICAE Virtual Seminar are:

- To promote a debate and dialogue on selected articles from the journal Adult Education and Development in order to go deeper and broaden in the analysis.
- To create a virtual space as an opportunity to reflect on the concept of skills and competences in Adult Education and Development in the current context sharing different regional visions and experiences.
- To connect global commitments with local practices, building bridges between local needs and the Post 2015 development agenda, the EFA goals, and CONFINTEA Belem Framework for Action.

The following articles of DVV International’s publication will be this years’ starting point of the seminar:

- The New Skills Agenda for Europe

By Dana Bachmann and Paul Holdsworth, European Commission

- Enhancing competencies in the Arab world: issues to be considered

By Rabab Tamish, Betlehem University, Palestine

- The 5 skills it takes to build another possible world – Learning from and for the World Social Forum

By Alessio Surian, University of Padova, Italy

- Soft skills in non-formal education: building capacities of the youth

By Priti Sharma, PRIA International Academy, New Delhi, India

You can find the articles here: <https://www.dvv-international.de/adult-education-and-development/editions/aed-832016-skills-and-competencies/> (in English, French and Spanish).
